A Few Words About Sleeping Porches

Since it was originally intended for man to live in the open air, and as modern business and customs will not permit this, the next best thing must be substituted. Sleeping in tents is considered the best way of procuring fresh air sleeping quarters, but this is not always practical, as the necessary space for a tent is sometimes not available. With the advent of the sleeping porch, it is possible to have access to an unlimited supply of fresh air while sleeping, without leaving the house, for it is usually possible to step from the house to the open air sleeping apartment.

Fresh air sleeping is not confined to invalids, but has been recommended and adopted by prominent medical authorities. It increases energy and makes the person practicing it feel better for having breathed pure, fresh air during sleeping hours.

Nearly every house has a porch, it is an easy matter to make this porch comfortable for open air sleeping by equipping it with curtains which will afford absolute protection from the elements. The porch open air sleeping method has a great many advantages, not the least of which is that you can robe and disrobe in a warm room.

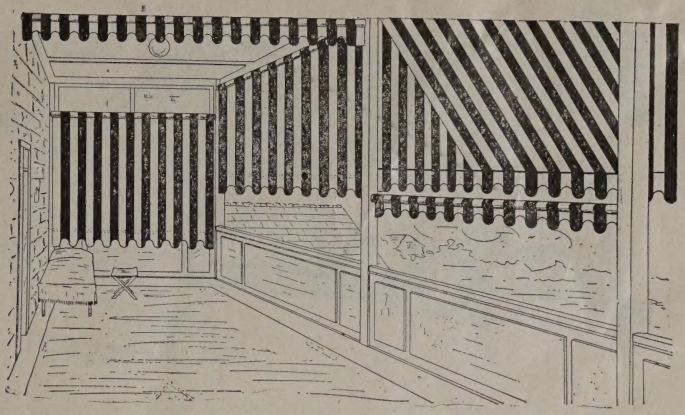
Open air sleepers are immune from headaches and the accompanying lassitude to which people sleeping in close quarters are subject.

Physicians everywhere concede that fresh air sleeping is the greatest tonic known and much better than medicine. Our forefathers and the early settlers of this country lived in the open and were seldom, if ever, sick.

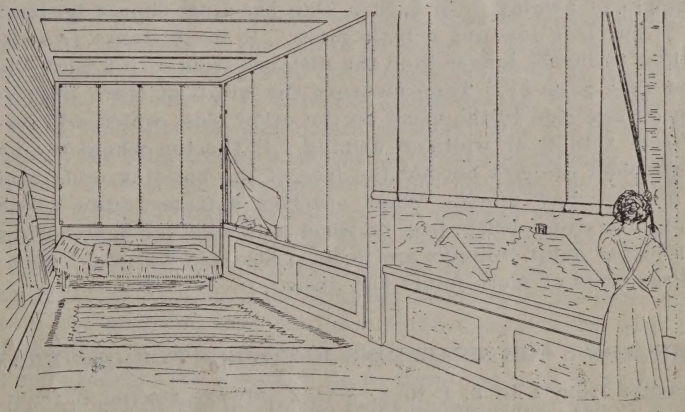
No doubt, the hot summer nights, which are common in cities, caused people to first seek relief in the fresh air and naturally sleeping on open porches or on floors by an open door was the only method. That custom is, however, dangerous, since the drafts cannot be controlled. It naturally followed that there must be some protection against drafts and porches were equipped with curtains that could be adjusted and with which the supply of fresh air could be regulated, as conditions required.

By fitting your porch with curtains enables you to sleep in comfort during both the summer and winter months. In cold weather when you are in bed, covered up and your head exposed, you get all the benefit of the fresh air and your body is as warm and comfortable as it would be in a heated room.

Look over your place of residence and see if that porch is not available for open air sleeping. Send us a diagram of your ideas of enclosing it and we will be pleased to aid you in fixing up your fresh air sleeping room. Start it now and notice how different you will feel. See opposite page.



The above shows a sleeping porch equipped with Roller Curtains (which have the roller above) placed below the screen at end of porch, and curtain lowered below the railing. On the front it shows curtain partly lowered, and under the ceiling and under the projecting awning, it shows the curtain rolled up.



The above diagrams show some of the different methods of enclosing sleeping porches. Nearly every person has their own idea as to just what they want. We are always willing and ready to assist with our advice and experience in fitting your porch up as it should be. Send us measurements and your ideas as to enclosing it, and we will be pleased to forward you samples and lowest prices.

DIRECTIONS FOR MEASURING

First determine the place where the joints of the frame will be fastened to the building, which should be from 7 to 8 feet from the sidewalk, according to the height of the front (see Figure 2 in diagram). You will observe that the curtain—15 inches deep—drops below that point, for which you will have to allow in clearing people's heads. Then measure from there to where top of awning can be fastened above the window (see Figure 1 in diagram), which will be the distance from 1 to 2, or height of awning, 2 to 3, in a high building, should be the same as 1 and 2, but in a low one a little more. If the distance from 2 to 3 is more than 10 inches longer than the distance from 1 to 2, slide rods must be used (see page 6). Then measure the width of store from center of column on one side to the same on the other side, which will be the distance from 3 to 4, or width of awning. If the top where the awning is to be attached projects beyond the face of the building or is back of the level, mention how much. When ordering a frame, state whether it is to be fixed in stone, brick, iron or wood, and whether door posts and face of building or outer columns are in line; also whether the frame requires two, three, four or more joints and arms.

DIRECTIONS FOR MEASURING RECOVERS FOR OLD FRAMES.

Measure from 1 to 2, 2 to 3, 3 to 4, always stating if front rod, or from 3 to 4, is IRON, WOOD or PIPE. If wood, give size of pole and state if pocket is wanted, or if awning is to fasten to the wood front bar with screw eyes. If iron or pipe, state if you want pocket for frame, or if it is to tie to frame through eyelets placed in awnings for that purpose.

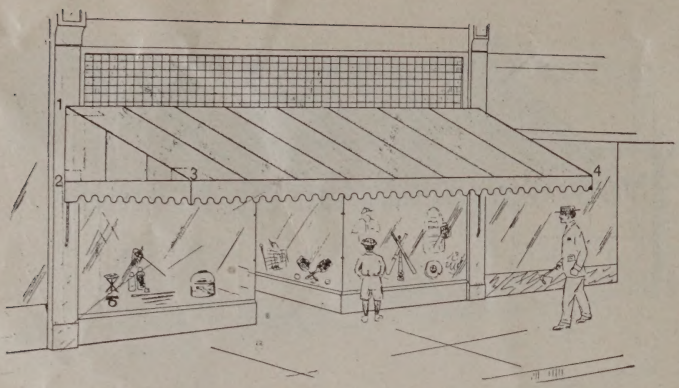
DIRECTIONS FOR PUTTING UP

First ascertain the height of the Awning, that is from 1 to 2; measure that distance down from Fig. 1 in diagram, which is the place for the joints (see Fig. 2). If the columns are iron, they will have to be bored and tapped and the ends of the joints threaded to screw in; if stone or brick, make holes 3 in. deep and use expansion stubs; if wood, fasten on with screws. Be careful to have the joints in line, and if any of the columns stand back; put the long joints on them; now fasten the bars to the joints with the joint screws and pass the front rod through the middle ones, and put on both end bars and screw on the nuts. Put up the pulleys, pass the ropes through the pulleys, one through each center pulley, and attach to front rod, the outside ropes first through the center, then through the outside pulley, and fasten to the front rod, 12 in. from the end. Now take the Awning, and while the frame is in the same position as shown in the diagram, take off the outside nuts, put the ends of the front rod through the large holes in the corners of the Awning and replace the nuts outside the Awning; tie to front rod with a tarred string, then raise it up and fix the top to the front at the proper height from the joints; let it down and tie the sides to the arms with the tarred string by passing them through the eyelet in the Awning at the side, just above the scallop, and it is finished.

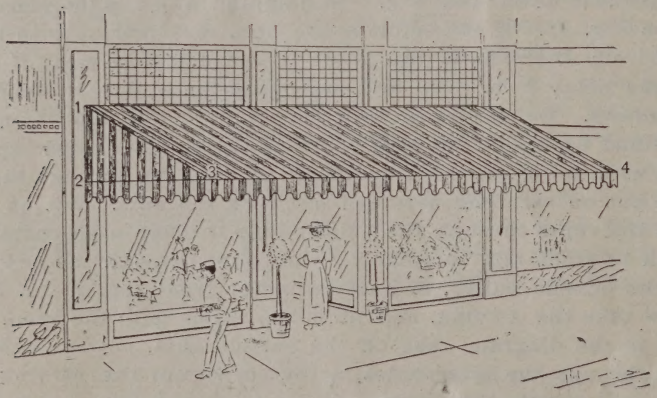
If the Awning frame has a wood front bar, we either make a pocket for the wood front bar or fasten the awning to the wood front bar with screw eyes placed through eyelets, which are put in the awning for that purpose.



Regular Store Awnings to Pull Up With Ropes

Showing Frame Without Center Arms and Slide Rods on End Columns.

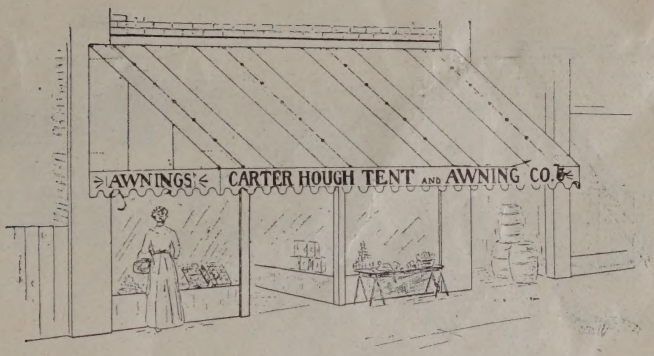
The frame for this style awning can be made with round or square corner braces or a trussed front bar. As the awning is placed below the prisms, slide rods must be used to allow the frame to drop into position when awning is pulled up.



Regular Store Awnings to Pull Up With Ropes

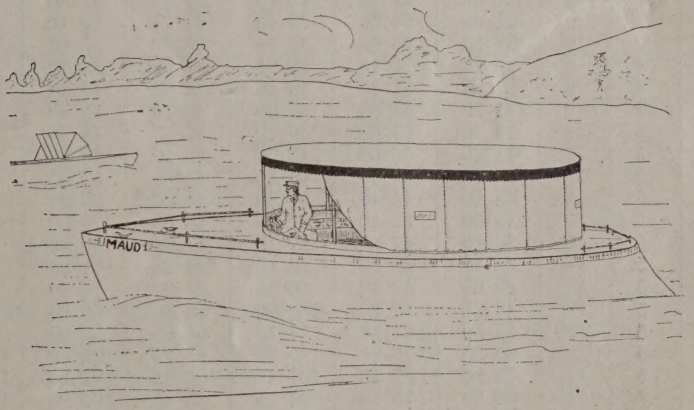
Showing Frame With Two Center Columns and Slide Rods on 4 Columns

This style frame can be used where there are 3, 4, 5 or more columns and up to thirty feet wide. For fronts wider than from 24 to 30 feet, we always recommend the Cog Gear Roller Awnings, which can be made up to 100 feet wide, if necessary.



FOLDING AWNING WITH PULL UP ROPES RUNNING THROUGH RINGS ON TOP OF AWNING

This throws the wear on the rings, not on the cloth, as is the case where ropes are used underneath the cloth. Awnings cannot blow out over front rod, nor up in the air, and when pulled up wet, the air can circulate through the folds. The cloth cannot be drawn into the pulleys, which insures the awning lasting much longer.



BOAT COVERS, SPRAY HOODS, COCK PIT COVERS, SIDE CURTAINS, DECK AND ROOF CANVAS

We have a well selected stock of White and Colored Ducks (including the genuine Army Khaki), also the well known TAN TEXTOL Waterproof Duck, suitable for Boat Awnings and side curtains, and the work is in charge of competent and experienced men who are capable of measuring, making and fitting any style of Boat Awning, Spray Hood, etc., for all kinds of Boats and Launches.

"A Word to the Trade from Thirty-Eight Years of Experience"

The canvass goods business is a tricky one; it is well to your advantage that before making purchases from a house that you first know who they are. First of all, are the men behind the firm of high moral character, who are striving at all times to give their customers the best to be had at the right price, or give them light weight, inferior ducks, branding them as first-class? Do they give you the best of workmanship? Are they financially able to fill their contracts? And last, but not least, are they there with the price? We very often have people to write or say to us, Why I paid so-and-so such-and-such a price, with the understanding that the tent was to be ten-ounce, but I am positive the tent is not ten-ounce, because it will not stand a hard rain, and although I have only had it a short time, it is wearing out, and now has several holes in it, the ropes are also rotted out. HAS THIS BEEN YOUR EXPERIENCE? We wish to say that we guarantee our tents to be exactly as represented at all times, full weight duck, full size tent, and best of workmanship. Give us a trial, compare OURS with the other's. If there is anything you desire in our line that is not listed, we would be glad to quote you prices on same upon receipt of your inquiry.

We give you a list herewith below of things that we manufacture and carry in stock that are not listed in this catalogue. We would be glad to have your inquiries, if you are interested, and we will quote you prices.
